DID YOU KNOW?

If you find something in your report that looks like a mistake, contact us at equifax.com/personal/disputes or call 888-EQUIFAX (888-378-4329) to start a new dispute or check the status of your dispute.

*There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies. A list can be found by accessing the CFPB's website at: consumerfinance.gov/consumer-tools/credit-reports-and-scores/consumer-reporting-companies/companies-list
Looking for telecommunications, pay TV, and utility data? That information is maintained by a different company, the National Consumer Telecom and Utilities Exchange (NCTUE), and can be accessed at: nctue.com/consumer*

An Overview of Your Credit Report

Your credit report provides different types of information, including:

Personal Information

This section includes your name (including any former names), current and previous addresses and phone numbers, employment data, Social Security number, and birthdate. Personal information is provided by you or your lenders and creditors. While this information is not used to calculate credit scores it is important to check for typos and any unfamiliar information.

Consumer File Notices

Notices on your credit report can include fraud and active duty alerts, security freezes or locks, and opt-outs of receiving prescreened offers of credit or insurance. You can also choose to add a consumer statement to your credit report to provide an explanation for why you missed a payment or why you believe something is being reported incorrectly. For more information on these consumer added notices visit equifax.com/personal/help/.

Account Information

Your credit report can include all types of credit accounts, such as revolving accounts, mortgage accounts, and any other installment loans or open lines of credit. When reviewing your account information, make sure accounts listed belong to you and look for the following:

- Account Status: See if an account is open, closed, paid on time, or past due. Closed accounts should have no money owed.
- Payment History: Check if you made payments on time for each account. Paying on time helps your credit, while late or missed payments hurt it. Payment history is provided, where available, for each account. To view up to 24 months of your historical payment and balance data, log in to your 'myEquifax' account at www.myequifax.com.
- Credit Limits and Balances: Look at the credit limits on credit cards and compare them to what you owe. It's better to keep the balance low compared to the limit. This helps improve your credit.
- Account Types: Notice the different kinds of credit accounts you have (like credit cards, loans, mortgages). Having a mix of account types is good for your credit.

Negative Information (Collections and Bankruptcy Public Records)

Be aware of any negative details such as late payments, debts that were given up on, or money owed to collections. Bankruptcies may also be shown on your credit report. These negative items can hurt your credit score. If there's something there, make sure it's correct and up to date.

Inquiries

This section shows who accessed your credit report and when. Too many hard inquiries can negatively impact your credit score and any unfamiliar inquiries may be a sign of identity theft.

If you find information you believe to be incorrect, you may visit us at equifax.com/personal/disputes or call us at 888-EQUIFAX (888-378-4329) to submit a dispute. You may also mail your dispute request to: Equifax | PO Box 740241 | Atlanta, GA 30374

Note: When you provide documents to Equifax as part of your dispute, including a letter, the documents may be submitted to one or more companies whose information are the subject of your dispute.

Collections

If you fall behind on payments, the lender or creditor may transfer your account to a collection agency or sell it to a debt buyer. This generally occurs a few months after you become delinquent, or the date you begin missing payments or not paying the full minimum payment.

A collection account may be reported to one, two, or all three of the nationwide credit reporting agencies (Equifax, Experian and TransUnion) and reflected on your credit reports. It can also have a negative impact on credit scores, depending on the credit scoring model (different ways credit scores are calculated).

Like other negative information, a collection account can remain on your credit reports for up to seven years from the date you first miss a payment to the original lender or creditor.

Inquiries

A request for your credit history is called an inquiry. There are two types of inquiries - those that may impact your credit rating/score and those that do not. They may remain on your file for up to 2 years.

- Hard Inquiries that can impact your credit rating/score. When a lender requests to review your credit reports after you've applied for credit, it results in a hard inquiry which may impact your credit score.
- Soft Inquiries that do not impact your credit rating/score. These are inquiries, for example, from companies making promotional offers of credit, periodic account reviews by an existing creditor, or your own requests to check your credit file.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street NW, Washington, DC 20552.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your creditworthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).
- The following FCRA right applies with respect to nationwide consumer reporting agencies:

CONSUMERS HAVE THE RIGHT TO OBTAIN A SECURITY FREEZE

You have a right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a security freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit.

As an alternative to a security freeze, you have the right to place an initial or extended fraud alert on your credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting 7 years.

A security freeze does not apply to a person or entity, or its affiliates, or collection agencies acting on behalf of the person or entity, with which you have an existing account that requests information in your credit report for the purposes of reviewing or collecting the account. Reviewing the account includes activities related to account maintenance, monitoring, credit line increases, and account upgrades and enhancements.

- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights, contact:
